

If you drop a brick, it will fall to the ground; the brick is subject to physical laws.
If someone steals your car, you'll probably be upset... the thief has broken a universal, self-evident natural law. When we break the natural law, it does not break, we do.

Learn more about the natural law and how to profit from it.
Click on the YouTube link!